April Showers Bring

New Models, Field Flooding

It's time to finish up those winter builds and show them off at the field. Below, Jeff Wisneski is working on a Great Planes Gee Bee profile kit that will be an electric. We are still looking for someone to care for the field. Hopefully the flooding will not be as bad due to the early thaw, but you never know. Be on the lookout!

Mitchell Gallery of Flight

Air Wisconsin Hangar Tour

The Mitchell Gallery of Flight membership meeting is known for having engaging guest speakers. Well, last month, they had their first offsite field trip to the Air Wisconsin hangar, just north of the terminal. Air Wisconsin leases aircraft to airlines such as American Airlines. The group saw two Bombardier CRJ200's, and later a third that had finished its flights to park for the night. We also saw their machine shop, mechanic's depot, and spare parts inventory. We are very appreciative of our hosts at Air Wisconsin. It is not very often you can get this close to a jetliner.
